This fully up-to-date guide will serve as your complete script for success in English AP literature and in the medtiple section choice of composition. First, we will overcome what the medtiple choice section looks like the nuts and bolts. So, I reveal the eight types of multiple questions choice that you can expect to find and how to succeed in them. Then come study tips, multiple member features choice and finally things to remember for test success! 2021 AP test changes due to Covid-19 due to coronavirus pandemic Covid-19 in progress, the AP tests will now be held in three different sessions between May and June. Your test dates, and if your tests will be online or on paper, will depend on your school. To learn more about how all this will work and get the latest information on the test dates, AP Online Review and what this changes means for you, make sure to check our article 2021 AP COVID-19 FAQ . AP Literature Section Multiple Choice General Vision AP English Literature and Section of Composition One is the Section of Multiple Choice. You will have 60 minutes to answer 55 questions about four to five passages of literary prose and poetry. The composition date of AP-illuminated tickets can vary from the XVI season to the 21st day, however, you will not usually be supplied with the author, date or title for any tickets (poetry is an occasional exception in relation to the title). Most passages come from works originally written in English, although it can occasionally be a translated passage from a notientable literary work into a foreign language. The medtiple section choice is worth 45% of your total score of the exam. You get a point for each correctly answered question. As there is no penalty for guessing this examination, you should answer every question of multiple choice, even if you have to guess. However, you should only guess after eliminating any answers you know are wrong. This is the general vision. But what kind of questions can you expect to see? The 8 types of illuminated questions of MostLight Choice There are eight types of questions you can find in the AP Lit exam. In this section, I will go through every type of question and how to respond to it. All questions are taken from the sample questions in the "AP course and examination description". Passages for these questions are also available there. # 1: The understanding of reading the reading understanding questions test if you understood what the passage was saying in a literal and concrete level. You do not need to flex your interpreting or analysis mothers here - just report what the ticket is saying. You can identify these questions because they usually use words and phrases such as "according to", stating "and" mentioned ". The best strategy for these questions is to return and re-read the part of the associated text to the question to make absolutely sure that you are reading correctly. You may need to read a little before and / or after the time mentioned to guide yourself and find the correct answer. Example: Explanation: The lines The passage is referring to saying : "Approprie ourselves all the words of the weapons, your strength and the long numbers that rocket the mind / Our slow hearts and cross will stay for this way, can not be afraid of what is very strange. "This question is asking why people will not hear the prophet when he talks about the dangers of arms. Which of the answers does more sense? Choose (a)," Humans are interested.
